Pre-requisites: The skills students would need to complete this activity.

Part 1: Current pre-requisite skills

Explain here the skills students would need to complete the activity competently, e.g.
Students should have an understanding of putting events in order chronologically, knowledge of past participle (even if not by that name), the ability to give reasons that are more interesting than “because it’s fun,” and the desire to talk to one another.

Part 2: Potential adjustments

Explain here some of the potential ways to adjust this activity for different purpose, e.g.
All cause-and-effect structures could be adjusted to be conditional statements without too much difficulty. Additionally, if your co-teacher is amenable, the final part of the activity may be more engaging if done on glass-walls instead of on the worksheet provided.

Timing: The amount of time each part of the activity may occupy.

Part 1: Title

Timing: x-y minutes

Repeat value: Yes/no

Part 2: Title

Timing: x-y minutes

Repeat value: Yes/no

Part 3: Title

Timing: x-y minutes

Repeat value: Yes/no
